

FIELD GOALS MAY PLAY BIG ROLES IN TO-MORROW'S FOOTBALL CLASSICS

SERVICE TEAMS NOT DROP KICK SCORERS

Both Army and Navy Rely on Place Goals as Safer and Surer.

O'HEARN, YALE'S ASSET

Discounts Buell's Abilities to Boot Three Points Into Day's Record.

By DANIEL.

Drop kicking, which has played an important role in the Army-Navy football series, will have no part in the big clash at Philadelphia to-morrow. Neither of the service elevens has a dependable man for booting the ball from the cadets. In fact, in recent years the Cadets and the Midshipmen have been neglecting drop kicking on the theory that place kicking is safer and surer. And even place kicking has not been relied on to any appreciable extent this season, for neither team has made three points through that medium.

However, let it not be understood that either the Army or the Navy is deficient in the kicking department. For kicking goals from placement the Cadets may call on Smythe, Wood, Garbisch or Prichard. These men have been kicking the goals after touchdowns and have had a fair measure of success, for the West Pointers have lost only thirteen points from thirty-two touchdowns. Smythe has kicked nine goals and Wood four. Wood also is an expert punter—as he demonstrated against Yale. His falling of kicking straight down the field, even with the wind, has since been remedied.

The Navy possesses two versatile kickers in Conroy and Barchet, with Cullen better than either when it comes to punting. The Annapolis eleven has lost eleven points from twenty-six touchdowns, and of the fifteen goals from placement seven went to Conroy, five to Barchet and three to Cullen. Cullen's punting has been improving rapidly. Against Penn State his work was splendid. But he will have to go home to keep pace with Wood, who has been getting about as much distance as any punter in the East.

The field goal failed to break into the Army-Navy proceedings at the Polo Grounds last year, when the Midshipmen won by 1 to 0, and the year before, when the Navy won by a similar score. But in 1919 Clyde King's two drop kicks were the deciding factors. The history of the service series is replete with great kicking deeds by men like Daly, Davis, Clark and Woodward of the Army, and Dalton, Brown, Seaman, Blanchard, Northcott and King of the Navy. The Navy has been by far the greater beneficiary of the field goal.

Harvard-Yale Kicking Even.

An analysis of the kicking situation in the Harvard-Yale game indicates that neither really had the edge. The Elis may call on Wright, Neale, Neidlinger or O'Hearn to do the kicking. They may ask all four of them to do some drop kicking, but O'Hearn is the most expert in that specialty. Buell is the chief drop kicker of the Harvard squad, with Owen and Clarke to do the punting. Prichard also can do a bit of drop kicking, but it is doubtful if he will get into the game. Spalding outranks him as underpunter to Buell.

The role of the drop kick in Harvard-Yale history has been a most brilliant one. We never will forget the field goal which Vic Kennedy kicked for the Crimson in the closing minutes of 1908 and won the day by 4 to 0. Men who saw the feat never will forget the five field goals booted by Chetley Beikley for Harvard in 1912. The exploits of Ted Coy, whose two field goals won for Yale in 1900, of Camp, Bull, Watkinson, Thompson and Terry of the Elis, and Marshall, Leeds, Seaman, Blanchard and Tower of the Crimson will live forever in the football records.

As to Big Three Coaches.

With the football season nearing its close, many persons are busy deciding for the Big Three in the matter of coaches for next season. It has been rumored that Ted Jones is to leave Yale, that Percy Haughton will come back to Harvard and that Bill Roper will resign at Princeton. None of the men named seems to know anything about these reports and the colleges concerned have made no decisions. Major Moore took pains to make a denial at Harvard, yesterday afternoon, when he was asked if he had been appointed to a high State position by Governor-elect Pinchot of Pennsylvania, and there is report that he will be named to the post. It is quite certain that Red Gennert, now freshman coach, will be promoted.

Brown Meets Dartmouth.

Brown, conqueror of Harvard, will close its season to-morrow with the clash with Princeton at Providence. Last year the old rivals who met for the first time back in 1894, did not get together. But here they are this time, all ready for a hard scrap, with the Bears the favorites.

Ed Robinson's eleven appears to have too strong a defense for the Hanoverians. However, Dartmouth has been coming along since the game with Cornell and may spring a surprise in this season of many surprises. On what both did against Harvard the advantage rests entirely with the Providence outfit.

Army-Notre Dame Game.

Major Daly, the Army coach, yesterday confirmed our story that the Army had not severed relations with Notre Dame and that it was negotiating to bring the game to New York next fall. A battle between the Cadets and the Hoosiers in this city would jam any field and would be one of the brightest features staged here since the old Yale-Princeton contests.

Important Games To-morrow.

In addition to the Harvard-Yale and Army-Navy games to-morrow there will be quite a few important contests in all sections of the country. There is a lot of interest in the California-Stanford game on the Coast in spite of the apparent superiority of the Bears. The meeting of Lafayette and Lehigh in one of the historic series of

Football Backs Baseball Off Map in California

FOOTBALL has chased baseball off the map in a fair sport in California. This statement was made yesterday by William McCarthy, president of the Pacific Coast League, who is in this city. "Football on the coast this season is enjoying a prosperity which a few years ago was not even dreamed of," said McCarthy. "Tremendous crowds have come out for every contest. Why, there were 25,000 at a sort of practice game between California and the Olympic Club of San Francisco. The vogue of football seems to have doomed baseball as a fall sport out our way."

Last year many major league stars were engaged by coast clubs and a winter league formed. It was quite successful in every detail except that which had to do with finance. Baseball is better off with a long fall and winter recess.

Football also will be watched closely, though Lafayette's margin should be at least four touchdowns. The Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech affair in Pittsburgh is another feature. The Hoosiers will go to Lincoln to play Nebraska on Thanksgiving Day and complete a season which will have seen them travel 10,000 miles.

Washington and Jefferson should win against Detroit. In the Conference the Iowa-Northwestern, Michigan-Minnesota and Chicago-Wisconsin tussles will be followed eagerly on the chance that the "will settle the championship question."

Praise for Langdon of Penn.

In the Pennsylvania victory over Penn State last Saturday the defensive work of Langdon of the Red and Blue was the deciding factor. The history of the service series is replete with great kicking deeds by men like Daly, Davis, Clark and Woodward of the Army, and Dalton, Brown, Seaman, Blanchard, Northcott and King of the Navy. The Navy has been by far the greater beneficiary of the field goal.

Twenty Princeton Players Receive Football Letters

Mel Dickinson, Tiger Captain, Granted Special Privilege.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. PRINCETON, Nov. 23.—Twenty football heroes who participated in the Princeton victories over Harvard and Yale were awarded varsity "P's" at a meeting of the undergraduate athletic committee here to-night and Mel Dickinson was officially granted the privilege of wearing a white sweater with a black "P" for having captained the sixth Princeton team to win a championship of the "Big Three." Those who received the letter were:

Rutgers Football Squad Is Hard Hit by Injuries

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. NEW BRUNSWICK, Nov. 23.—Injuries have forced Plover Sanford to prepare a Rutgers eleven for Saturday's game with Bucknell different from any combination he has used this season. Henry Benkert, principal ground gainer, will not start in the backfield and may not play at all because of his wrenched knee. He is being kept out of uniform until to-morrow and then will take part only in the line drill. Signal drill, Keller, fullback, however, has been returned after a two weeks rest, and around him will be Clark and Oslas, halfbacks, and Maloney, calling signals.

Sanford had a dummy scrimmage practice to-day, but heavy tackling was expressly forbidden which injured several in Tuesday's workout. Rutgers still continues to wear a bandage over his cut eye, and Capt. Raub walks with a limp. Scudder was at center, Kingman and Hatzel at guard, Raub and Peller, tackles, and Brennan and Dickinson on the flanks. George Smith, regular tackle, has been kept on the side lines this week with a sore leg and may not be used.

ARMY PRECAUTIONS DURING PRACTICE

Even Newspaper Men Are Barred From Franklin Field While Cadets Work Out.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—Of all the secret football practices yet held on Franklin Field the Army's session to-day was the most exclusive. When Major Charles Daly's West Point squad "A," which is here to battle the Navy, walked onto the field at 3:30 P. M. orders were issued that the entire field be cleared. More than twenty-five policemen were brought on the field and every person, with the exception of the Army players and coaches, was told to clear out. These orders even included newspaper men, who had arrived before the team.

Major Daly had more than straight football to try out. He placed those Army stalwarts through trick and straight plays that have carefully been improved for the Navy game.

Capt. Fritz Breidster, the giant guard, who is playing against the Navy for the fourth straight year, like all the other West Pointers, is in a fighting mood. "The boys are all keyed up and anxious to get at that Navy bunch," said Breidster, while he was undressing in the training quarters.

"Never felt better in my life, and while we all expect to win it will not be done without a real fight." Flanking Breidster on the Army line is Garbisch, the former W. and J. star at center, and Farwick, a lad from Elgin, Ill., at right guard.

Major Daly announced that what will be the line up which will start against Bob Polwell's middies.

Army Substitutes Depart To-day for Franklin Field

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. WEST POINT, Nov. 23.—The Army's "B" football squad will follow squad "A" into Philadelphia to-day. Thirty-five players make up the group moving to-morrow for the scene of the Army-Navy game, and the entire corps of coaches, under command of Col. Robert M. Danford, will follow on a special train leaving here at 5:40 Saturday morning. The substitutes are due at Philadelphia at 11 o'clock. The officers and residents of the post will go down on a second special train, leaving at 8:30.

The members of the Army football team will leave Philadelphia Saturday night and stop in New York until Sunday morning.

Fordham Has Last Workout for Tilt With Muhlenberg

The Fordham varsity football squad yesterday had its last strenuous workout in preparation for its game at Allentown, Pa., with Muhlenberg to-morrow. Gargan gave the Fordham players a lot of practice on falling on the ball and at the tackling dummy. As has been the case on the other afternoons of the week, no scrimmage was held.

A short session will be held this afternoon. A thorough signal drill will be the main feature of the final drill. The squad will leave for Allentown to-morrow on an early train that will get it there about 11:30 A. M. Though Gargan has not as yet made any definite selection as to the number of the men to make the trip, it is probable that the entire squad will be taken. The game with Muhlenberg will be the tenth and final game of the season for Fordham. Last year's game between Fordham and Muhlenberg resulted in a 12 to 9 victory for the Allentown lads.

Juniors in C. C. N. Y. Final.

The class of 1923 took the lead in the Intercollegiate water polo championship at C. C. N. Y. yesterday by defeating the '25 team in the semi-finals of the tournament. The seniors, with three varsity men in their lineups, had an easy time and the final score was 15 to 7. At half time the tally was 9 to 2 in favor of the '23 team. Johnny Donders, who scored two touchdowns and a thrown goal, and George Shanley, goal tender, starred for '23, while "Tarzan" Trachtman and Hute were the best of the sophomore aggregation.

FINAL REHEARSAL AT HOME FOR NAVY

Middies Join Army To-day at Scene of Annual Football Struggle.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 23.—The Naval Academy football squad this afternoon had its last practice on the home grounds for the season of 1922. The party will leave for Philadelphia ready for the contest with the Military Academy team which will be run through signals eleven at 8:40 to-morrow morning, arriving about noon. In the afternoon formations on Franklin Field.

All hands are fit, while Barchet, the running back and star of the Navy team, is in particularly fine fettle. He weighs 155 pounds, which is five pounds more than he weighed in the last Army game. A circumstance of much interest is the fact that Wood and Barchet, admitted to be the backfield stars of the Army and Navy teams, respectively, were teammates at Johns Hopkins.

The Middies turned out to this afternoon's practice as fully as to a regular formation. Under cheer leaders Hederman, Buck and McCandless, they went through the whole program of songs and cheers. Rehearsal of formations and signals took up the practice period.

There is nothing like overconfidence at the Naval Academy, though the Midshipmen and officers feel that the team will win. The coaches, however, are convinced that Army has just as strong a team as the Navy this year and have made the players feel that the slightest slackening of effort at any moment of the game may mean a defeat. They believe that the Navy has a much better team than the Army, but only the highest effort sustained to the last second of the game can bring about victory.

The football party will be in charge of Lieut. Benjamin F. Perry, football representative of the Navy Athletic Association. The staff of coaches making the trip is composed of Bob Polwell, "Chief" Seaman, "Pop" Perry, Moore, Cruise and Ewen.

Brown Prepares for Aerial Attack by Hanover Outfit

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. PROVIDENCE, Nov. 23.—Brown gridders put in a heavy afternoon with a dummy scrimmage against the second team, using the aerial game as their specialty. Dartmouth to employ forward passes and Coach Robinson is taking no chances on his Bears being caught napping. The scrubs threw them short and far, but after the first few minutes of drill it did not make much difference where the heavens went, for the varsity showed them consistently.

Robby again gave a number of reserves an opportunity to work out with the regulars, including Schmitts, Brooklyn lad, who was in Sheldon's place last year and made the most of his chance to show the coaches that he the coaches that he is varsity material. It will not be surprising if he shares honors with Sheldon at this wing against Dartmouth.

Pudge Neidlinger Is Out of Dartmouth-Brown Tilt

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 23.—Dartmouth's football team, thirty strong, left to-day for the season's final with Brown in Boston Saturday. Before leaving Coach Cannell announced that Pudge Neidlinger, outstanding performer of the Green team this year and star tackle for two previous seasons, would be out of the game Saturday on account of a knee injury received in the Columbia contest.

Goldstein, substitute tackle for the last two years, will take Neidlinger's place against Capt. Gullan of Brown.

Columbia Natators Begin Practice Sessions in Tank

Columbia University swimming candidates took to the water yesterday for the first time this season. Only members of last year's team are available. While the swimming coach, Mr. Cannell, announced that Pudge Neidlinger, outstanding performer of the Green team this year and star tackle for two previous seasons, would be out of the game Saturday on account of a knee injury received in the Columbia contest.

Goldstein, substitute tackle for the last two years, will take Neidlinger's place against Capt. Gullan of Brown.

PICK PROBABLE TEAM FOR HARVARD

Jones Holds Dummy Scrimmage in Bowl—Crimson Squad Due To-day.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. NEW HAVEN, Nov. 23.—What was practically a final selection of the Yale team that will face Harvard on Saturday was made this afternoon by Ted Jones when he sent the eleven made up this way through a lively dummy scrimmage within the Bowl: Left end, Hulman; left tackle, Miller; left guard, Cruikshank; center, Lovejoy; right guard, Cross; right tackle, Diller; right end, Deaver; quarterback, Neidlinger; left halfback, Neale; right halfback, Jordan; fullback, Mallory.

That this team will start against Harvard is almost a certainty. Mallory, the great defensive back, is again a well man, and Miller was at his old place at right tackle, a berth made doubtful because of his injuries. His return to the fold will add strength to the right side of the Blue line. Ted Wright, the long distance punter and forward pass thrower, followed the team in its work to-day, and later got into the drill. He is almost sure to be in action for a part of the game. Win Lovejoy, who missed yesterday's practice because of a cold, played center throughout the practice with the exception of a few moments.

"Judge" Landis relieved him. Other players who will probably be used in the Harvard game are Luman and Lincoln, ends; Greene and Aoss, tackles; Lufkin and Davis, guards; Landis and Norris, centers; O'Hearn, Seaman and Kelley, quarterbacks, and Scott and Bench in the backfield. An eleven from this collection would be almost as strong as the first team.

To-morrow Jones plans a light signal drill early in the afternoon, after which the Bowl will be turned over to Capt. Charles Buell and his crimson clad players. Harvard will begin practice at 1:30 o'clock. The men from Cambridge will be quartered in Derby.

The advance guard of the greatest crowd in football history has arrived; automobiles from many States carrying to New Haven the first of the 75,000 persons who will see the contest. The city is gay with Harvard and Yale colors, and the speculators are plying their trade as usual. One pair of tickets to-day for $15, but the average price asked is $20 for two.

The speculators have a few more left and the demand is such that by game time, if the weather is good, tickets may bring as much as $15 a pair.

This evening in Woolsey Hall there was another great football rally attended by practically every member of the university. The occasion was dignified by the presence of Dr. James Rowland Angell, president of Yale, who spoke briefly to the men. While he did not claim to be a prophet to the extent of predicting that Yale would win on Saturday, he felt satisfied that every Yale man believed the team would win. He commended the spirit of the players. Ted Jones, Mac Aldrich, Capt. Jordan and Charlie Lucie, football manager, also spoke and predictions of a Yale victory were freely made.

Girl Students Implicated by Yale Ticket Scalper

Arrested, He Says Music Scholars Signed Orders.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 23.—Two men were arrested here to-night on a charge of speculating in tickets for the Yale-Harvard game in a general cleanup staged by the local police with the aid of the university authorities. Both were held in bonds of $100 for a hearing to-morrow.

James Cota de Felice was charged with contracting to furnish eight tickets for the game for $28. He was alleged to have sold four of the eight at $5 apiece when he was arrested. He said two girl students in the music school had signed the applications on which he got four tickets.

Robert Noonan was charged with selling two tickets at a much fancier price. He was arrested on a charge preferred by a representative of the Yale ticket office, who said he had been led by Noonan into the cellar of a shop where he bought the tickets at $25 apiece.

Twenty Candidates Report to Columbia Hockey Coach

Twenty candidates for the Columbia University hockey team reported to Coach Tom Howard at the 151st Street Ice Palace yesterday afternoon for the first workout of the season. Several members of last year's sextet are among the candidates. The veterans include Captain Rollins and Rogers, who starred on the offensive; Baldwin, right wing, and Kopper, goal tender.

Following the workout, which included a scrum, the coach expressed satisfaction with the material, but hoped that the squad would be augmented considerably, especially in view of the fact that freshmen are eligible. The next practice will be held Tuesday afternoon in the auxiliary gym.

Pep Luncheon Introduced by Lehigh Undergraduates

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 23.—That the Lehigh student body is behind the Brown and White team scribbled though it is, for Saturday's big game with Lafayette, was evidenced to-day when 800 out of the 1,000 in the student body packed themselves in the University Commons at noon to attend a "pep" luncheon. More than 100 others anxious to be in on the innovation were turned away because of lack of space.

Dixie Camp for Yale Nine.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 23.—Announcement was made here to-day that the Yale University baseball team will return here next March for its spring training.

BUELL NOT IN FORM FOR BEST FOOTBALL

Spalding Expected to Direct Harvard Attack Most of Time Against Yale.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 23.—Except for a short drill to-morrow afternoon in the Yale Bowl the Harvard team is as ready as it will be for its great match with the New Haven rival. To-morrow morning eighty-three players, coaches and various assistants will be on their way to Derby, Conn., where they will spend the night before the battle.

Chief interest to-day centered in the appearance of Charley Buell at quarterback. The Harvard captain not only ran his team but handled kicks. Coach Fisher says that Buell will start. Still, the veteran quarterback is really in none too good shape, as was shown to-day. Buell shows his condition when he strives to make quick starts or to slow down quickly after a sharp break. Spalding unquestionably will be at quarterback much of the game. However, two more days are expected to do much for Buell's condition.

The fullback is still in the air. In the lineup announced for the game both Hammond and Chapin were mentioned. Hammond was very fast to-day and most of the coaches seem to be in favor of using him. Eastman was back in the line although still alternating at right tackle with Greenwood. Coach Fisher announced the following as the eleven which will face Yale at the start of Saturday's game:

The final home practice was hard. It included offensive drills between the varsity and substitutes and a scrimmage with the second team, which gave the varsity its last test against the Yale formations.

Hundreds of students were in the stands and at the end of the practice they cheered all the members of the team and the coaches. The latter arranged an impromptu team and ran off a few plays. The lineup included Soucy, Richards and Haughton, ends; Sedgwick and Trumbull, tackles; Fisher and Woods, guards; Parmenter, center; Watson, quarterback, and Hardwick, Mahan and Felton in the backfield.
